

PHILADELPHIA TROLLEYS ARE AGAIN ROLLING

Rolling Stock Begins Moving Few Hours After CIO Unionists Approve New Contract

COST IS ENORMOUS

Philadelphia, Feb. 21.—(P)—A subway guard shouted "Watch the doors!" A crowded bus squealed to a stop. A trolley motorman besought his passengers to "move to the rear of the car."

For Philadelphia's commuting millions, those were welcome sounds today. The city's 10-day transit strike was over.

The Philadelphia Transportation Company's rolling stock began moving last night a few hours after rank and file CIO unionists roared approval of the pay raise that ended their walkout.

Although the transit tie-up was ended, the nation's third largest city will not soon forget the "Strike of '49," whose cost business and industry an estimated $70,000,000.

It forced the $2,000,000 daily PTC riders to scramble into the city by their own resources.

Sardine-can tight suburban trains jugged some. Many walked. Thousands hitch-hiked.

And when the strike came to its stormy and last night, Philadelphia could look back on two noisy mass rallies, one of which broke up in a near-riot.

The strike cost each union man some $11 a day. Each gained 64 cents. Previously workers averaged $1.35 an hour. They now make $1.43.

PTC announced a loss of about $350,000. The company says it has to increase fares to keep from going bankrupt. PTC already has raised its fares twice in the last three years.

The city's millions had on-the-scenes reports of what went on at the transit workers mass rallies. Mobile radio station units moved into Town Hall and let the union speak for itself.

The first rally got under way shortly before midnight Saturday and broke up after 2 a. m. yesterday.

International President Michael J. Quill called that rally a "house party." He said the meeting was "no credit to the Transport Workers' Union of Philadelphia."

He summoned the workers to another rally.

That one started at 2 p. m. An hour earlier, the union's executive board rejected the agreement and directed the rank and file to continue on strike.

Local TWU President Andrew Kaelin urged acceptance. Vice President Robert High argued against it.

Then Mike Quill took over. In a silvery voice heavy with an Irish brogue, Quill exhorted the workers to accept the agreement. A deaf silence fell over the group.

"I don't like this contract," Quill barked, "but sometimes you have to take half a loaf or less to make an advance."

Go back to work. Go back to work. Maintain union solidarity. Don't split the union down the middle. That's what the company wants."

He called for a vote. All but 25 men stampeded to their feet and screamed acceptance.

EXPRESS TERMINALS AFFECTED BY STRIKE

New York, Feb. 21.—(P)—A union official said today that work was at a standstill at six Railway Express agency terminals in New York and New Jersey.

He added that an employee slowdown was in progress at 54 other depots and terminals operated by the agency in the metropolitan area.

Daniel J. Sullivan, general chairman of the express division of the AFL-Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship clerks, said the stoppage and slowdown were called in protest against alleged contract "stalling" tactics employed by the company.

Biggest Peacetime Exercises Of the Navy Being Launched

Washington, Feb. 21.—(P)—The Navy shoves off today for a mock battle with the two things that give it gooseflesh—atom bombs and "Snorkel" submarines.

Major warships, including the 45,000 ton carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt, and the equally big battleship Missouri, are sailing from east coast ports for the mid-Atlantic and into the Caribbean.

Billed as the Navy's biggest peacetime exercises, the games will combine some 35,000 men, 120 ships and several hundred aircraft to practice the latest tricks of sea warfare.

The Navy is on the alert not only for its first deep-sea trial of fighting ships against the A-bomb, but also for the possibility of disarmament.

Gives Lowdown on Hungary

Selden Chapin, United States Minister to Hungary, and his wife are pictured in Paris, France, on their way to the United States. Chapin, whose recall was asked by Hungary, will report to Washington on the Cardinal Mindszenty case. He stated in Paris that life in Hungary "is beyond imagination and defies description."

The country has "degenerated into a police state," he added.

Pope Says Imprisonment Of Mindszenty Is Persecution

Vatican City, Feb. 21.—(P)—Pope Pius XII told 250,000 cheering Italians yesterday the imprisonment of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty in Communist-ruled Hungary was religious "persecution" by a "totalitarian and anti-religious" government.

The pontiff made his fifth public condemnation of the cardinal's sentence to a huge crowd gathered in the square in front of St. Peter's church.

He hinted strongly that the secret means, had wrung from Cardinal Mindszenty a confession of crimes of which the primate was innocent.

His holiness clearly warned in his fifteen-minute address that the peoples of Communist-dominated countries should shun any agreement between church and state which might limit the activity of the Roman Catholic Church.

Fervent cheers followed virtually every sentence.

The crowd in the square was a cross-section of the population.

Standing in the brilliant sunshine were priests and nuns, soldiers and sailors, society figures and shabby women carrying babies.

Children ran through the crowd and hawkers sold refreshments, balloons and other knick-knacks.

The Pope spoke following an open-air mass.

The throng roared their approval when he asserted that the Pope could not remain silent when the church's affiliates were torn from her with "violence and cunning;" when parents could not educate their children as they liked; when states interfered in ecclesiastical organization and priests were punished for not violating the secrecy of the confessional.

Such protests, he asserted, are not "illegitimate interference" in the political powers of the state.

"Modern persecutors," he said, surpass the torturers of the Christian martyrs in the days of Nero, by "using the most recent advances of science" to shame their victims after physically crushing them.

Democrats Predicting Labor Program Will Clear House

Washington, Feb. 21.—(P)—House Democratic leaders predicted today that most of President Truman's labor program will clear that branch of congress.

They made the forecast as the CIO (1) called that program the keystone of Mr. Truman's "fair deal" proposals, and (2) complained that in the first 50 days of the 81st congress none of the proposals has been enacted.

Philip Murray, the CIO president, sounded the protest. He also said that Senator Taft (R-Ohio) has made "a long list of concessions and retreats" adding up to a "reluctant confession" that the Taft-Hartley law is unworkable and "foreign to sound labor relations."

Mr. Truman's labor program calls for repeal of the T-H measure and substitution of the old Wagner act with some additions.

Taft, absent from Washington on a speaking tour, said he wanted to study Murray's statements before replying. But the Ohio senator has denied similar contentions and argued on the other hand that foes of the T-H law have admitted that some parts of it are all right.

Murray expressed his views in a letter to Senator Elbert D. Thomas (D-Utah), chairman of the Senate Labor committee and sponsor of the administration's labor bill. The committee resumes public hearings today and is scheduled to wind them up Wednesday.

There have been no hearings on the bill yet on the house side of the capitol and the labor committee there is in recess until March 1.

After a nose count, however, house administration leaders told reporters privately they are confident the bill will go through.

CONGRESS TO HAVE TREATY WITHIN MONTH

Security Pact To Be Re-Inforced by Multi-Billion Dollar Military Aid Proposal

IS IN THE FINAL STAGES

Washington, Feb. 21.—(P)—The proposed North Atlantic pact will give its members strong assurances that the United States will not stand idly by in case of attack, it was learned today.

An official source, whose name may not be used said the military clause of the pact will not commit this country automatically to war. But, he said, it will carry assurances strong that none will mistake this nation's intention to resist aggression.

It is understood Secretary Acheson will negotiate with representatives of the pact-making countries on the basis of this new understanding reached with the senate foreign relations committee.

Acheson and the senate committee are reported in agreement on the military commitments that can be made.

Both Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) and Senator Vandenberg (Mich.), top Republican on the committee, are said to be satisfied with this new approach to the problem of giving treaty members the strong assurance they desire.

Both senators are opposed to any automatic commitment to war. They believe such a promise would be illegal because it would by-pass the congress' constitutional rights to declare war.

The precise phrasing of the military clause in the pact now drawn is still secret. But it is understood there is agreement to give signatories an assurance of aid in case of attack.

The State Department hopes to present the treaty to congress in about a month. It would be reinforced by a multi-billion dollar military aid proposal for participating western European countries.

Secretary of State Acheson, Canadian and European negotiators will enter the final stage of treaty negotiations this week.

Acheson states expected to have another talk with the senate foreign relations committee. Its members convinced him in a session Friday that the senate can be expected to approve a strongly worded commitment to Europe, even though any automatic war commitment is out.

Meanwhile, the week-end brought these other developments:

1. Senator Fulbright (D-Ark) declared the Atlantic pact must carry the United States into even of an aggression against any of the treaty countries. He reasoned that no such thing as a legal commitment is possible. Senator Smith (R-NJ) indicated that he is urging that the treaty should leave no doubt that the United States would move quickly if Russia decided to march.

2. Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said in a speech at Kenton, O., that he was "inclined to favor" some such treaty as the Atlantic pact, but in the absence of details "I don't know exactly what it's supposed to be like." Taft added that of course, any agreement will have to meet the constitutional provision that only congress can commit the country to war.

3. The Washington Post said in a copyrighted article that a poll it took showed the senate would vote overwhelmingly to fight should Russia attack any one of the north Atlantic treaty countries.

4. Senator Capehart (R-Ind) called for a slash in European recovery funds, now up for appropriation. He proposed thereby to make money available to finance the projected new military aid program without increasing this nation's total dollar output to Europe.

5. Norway's dominant labor party gave the government at Oslo a 330 to 35 vote of approval on steps to put Norway in the Atlantic security system. This was despite clear warning from the Soviet Union that the Russians would take a serious view of such action.

FUGITIVE BURGLAR IS INJURED IN FALL

Pittsburgh, Feb. 21.—(P)—A man identified by police as Edward T. King, 26, of Pittsburgh, died in serious condition today as the result of a 60-foot fall while being chased by a northside resident.

Patrolman Clifford Earl gave this version of last night's incident:

Norbert Miller, returning to his northside home, saw a man inside. He borrowed a shotgun from a neighbor, returned to the house and surprised the intruder.

The man, brushing the gun aside, ran outside. He came to an iron barrier above a street, couldn't stop and plunged to the street. Miller said that he didn't shoot because "I didn't want to kill him."

Dog Returns After An Absence of Six Years

Kearny, N. J., Feb. 21.—(P) Just as if nothing had happened Tinker, a black and white dog, sauntered home yesterday and settled into his favorite chair.

Tinker, completely nonchalant and uncommunicative, merely curled into a corner of the chair.

The dog hadn't been home since he was let out for a walk six years ago.

Premier Sun Is Undecided About Future

Canton, Feb. 21.—(P)—Premier Sun Fo said today that it had not been decided whether he would return to Nanking with Acting President Li Tsung-Jen.

Sun made the statement after introducing Li in a cold fashion at a Kuomintang memorial meeting.

Li, who flew here in an effort to reach an accord with the Canton bloc of the government, renewed his plea to all Chinese political parties for unity in seeking peace.

He paid tribute to retired President Chiang Kai-Shek for stepping down in the interest of peace. Observers noted that Li referred to Chiang only as head of the Kuomintang party.

Li reiterated that he thought peace could be made with the Communists.

Nanking, Feb. 21.—(P)—Acting President Li Tsung-Jan of China, was due back in Nanking sometime today from a flying trip to Canton to try to get Premier Sun Fo and the cabinet to return to Nanking.

In Canton Li issued a statement saying those who try to solve China's political issues by means of military force are doomed to failure.

A representative of Sun Fo, here to talk with Li, predicted Sun would come back to Nanking if the legislative Yuan requested him.

Sun, the representative said, has been ill.

Li flew to Canton in what was described as a final effort to restore Chinese government unity. He was reported prepared to demand the ouster of Sun Fo if the Premier declined to return to Nanking.

Central China's Gen. Pan Chung-Hsi, close friend of Li's was in Nanking apparently to safeguard the President's office during Li's absence in the south.

WOMAN COPS DETROIT SHOOTING HONORS

Detroit, Feb. 21.—(P)—Much to their embarrassment, Detroit police have discovered an Annie Oakley in their midst.

Officers turned out yesterday for the annual interpret pistol matches. They admit they weren't counting on Mrs. Rosemary Schneider, 28, a former school teacher who joined the force's women's division three years ago.

Mrs. Schneider copped the individual title with 179 of a possible 200 points.

Return of Freezing Weather Plugs Rising Flood Waters

A timely return of cold weather has plugged rising flood waters along streams in the midwest today as military operations continued to shrink the blizzard area.

The freezing weather stopped the runoff from melting snow with some Nebraska counties on the verge of another impending disaster. The colder weather was expected to hold out through today, at least, allowing needed time for the high water to roll downstream.

At the same time, Gen. Lewis A. Pick, commanding snow-removal operations, said the emergency appeared to have passed in six South Dakota counties, long snow-bound, and that he had recommended demobilization of men and machinery there.

Some North Dakota counties still remained to be dug out, however, and Gen. Pick said more equipment was being sent into that area. He said 1,031 men and 228 heavy pieces of snow-moving equipment were in operation there.

The worst Nebraska flooding occurred in the vicinity of Falls City, where the Nemaha river and other smaller streams had inundated a total of 23 square miles. At Agency, Mo., the Platte river was reported out of its banks.

The Willamette river and its tributaries which had flooded up the valley lowlands in Oregon also were falling substantially.

In the absence of blowing snow throughout most of the great plains, Gen. Pick reported excellent progress generally over the weekend in clearing highways and railroads. The Union Pacific Railroad's main line in Wyoming was cleared again, but some branch lines still were snowblocked.

Arbitration Bill Declared Essential

Harrisburg, Feb. 21.—(P)—A spokesman for the Republican senate majority said today that a bill requiring arbitration of transportation wage disputes would be pushed for passage.

Chairman James S. Berger, (R-Potter) of the senate labor and industry committee, said as a hearing opened on the controversial measure that settlement of the Philadelphia transit strike did not remove the need for such legislation.

"We are going to try to pass this bill," Berger said, as representatives of organized labor groups appeared at the hearing to oppose it. Others, including the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce showed up to urge its passage."

The measure, an amendment to the 1947 utility labor law, was introduced last week during the Philadelphia strike. It would bring into that law a requirement for arbitration of labor disputes involving urban passenger transportation service.

Democratic Minority Plans Last-Ditch Stand Against House-Approved Tax Plan

Harrisburg, Feb. 21.—(P)—The senate Democratic minority mustered its strength today for a last-ditch stand against the administration's house-approved tax program.

Sen. John H. Dent, Democratic floor leader, served notice he would fight Gov. James H. Duff's $434,000,000 program "right down the line" when it comes to a vote early in March.

"You can't convince me all that money is necessary to run the state the next two years," said Dent, who announced his intention to submit a revenue program of his own.

But Sen. John M. Walker, the Republican floor leader, said he expects little difficulty in obtaining senate passage of the tax bills. All of them present temporary taxes for another two years, except the gasoline tax measure.

That calls for an increase in the state's levy of one cent a gallon to five cents for two years.

Walker based his confidence on eventual Senate passage of the tax program on the 35-15 party lineup. Senate Republicans, receiving the tax program from the House after a bitter fight there last week, said they would be held in committee at least a week. That would bring them to the floor for debate next week.

The two measures that stirred up the House fight were the gasoline tax bill and other renewing for two more years a levy of one cent on each 12-ounce of soft drinks and a half cent on each ounce of fountain syrups. Other measures to continue taxes on corporations, utilities, cigarettes, beer and liquor passed there with little or no opposition.

The Senate may vote tonight on a companion bill to the gasoline tax measure. It would increase the state police force from 1600 to 2000 men with the 400 additional men assigned exclusively to highway patrol work. They would be paid from the state motor fund produced by the gasoline tax.

Bill drafters, at the same time, put finishing touches on Governor Duff's plan for a $147,000,000 General State Authority and $40,000,000 Highway Authority. Both would be utilized to finance heavy-cost commonwealth construction.

Also up for introduction soon in the General Assembly is the governor's $15,000,000 Housing Subsidy program and toll bridge purchase plans.

Elaborating on his own plans for financing state expenses, Senator Dent called for a state-wide one per cent wholesale and retail mercantile levy. At the same time he urged repeal of the 1947 local tax law.

Dent estimated that his tax plan would bring in $200,000,000 every two years and "relieve the entire burden of Act 481 (local tax law) on the local communities of the commonwealth."

Dent at the same time asked for enactment of a state-wide 10 per cent amusement tax to provide $20,000,000 for local schools, and legalized horse racing betting to finance the $500,000,000 soldier bonus.

PITTSBURGH PRINTERS RATIFY NEW CONTRACT

Pittsburgh, Feb. 21.—(P)—Typographical workers on three Pittsburgh newspapers yesterday ratified a new one-year contract providing $5 weekly wage increases.

Duff Looking For Sec. Of Commerce

Harrisburg, Feb. 21.—(P)—Gov. James H. Duff must look around some more for a new secretary of commerce.

The governor offered the $10,000 cabinet post to Arthur C. Kaufmann, head of Gimbels Brothers department store, Philadelphia, but announced over the weekend that Kaufmann had declined it.

Duff said that Kaufmann decided his other duties would make it impossible to accept the cabinet post.

The Commerce Department's principal functions are to promote Pennsylvania industries and products and to attract new industries to the state.

The post has been vacant since Orus J. Matthews, Philadelphia investment banker, resigned on Jan. 1. Raymond H. Smith, deputy secretary, has been in charge of the department since that time.

SUGGESTIONS FOR CHANGES ARE OUTLINED

Group Lays Down 22 Recommendations in Report Urging Concentration Of Authority

PROPOSALS DESCRIBED

Washington, Feb. 21.—(P)—The Hoover Commission today urged a top-to-bottom overhauling of the state department to remove "flaws" in the handling of the nation's foreign relations.

The commission laid down a list of 22 recommendations in a report which said the reins over this country's dealings abroad—now spread out all over the government—should be concentrated squarely in President Truman's hands.

While some of the group's suggestions were directed to Congress, most were aimed straight at the State Department. That agency, the commission declared, has fallen to "low esteem" with the lawmakers, the press, the public and many of its own officials.

The main reason for this, the report said, is the department's postwar work overload.

The 12-man bi-partisan commission on government organization is headed by former President Herbert Hoover. As vice chairman, Secretary of State Acheson helped draft the recommendations for improving the department he came to lead.

These proposals included:

1. Letting the department drop such operating functions as handling passport visas, munitions control, aviation and shipping, so it can concentrate on policy matters.

2. Providing the secretary with a larger top-level staff to help him handle the burden. He said his undersecretary has. There should be two new deputy undersecretaries, eight assistant secretaries instead of six, and a general reshuffling of functions, the report said.

3. Building up a team of expert negotiators to represent the United States at international conferences—an arrangement already started with the appointment of Philip C. Jessup as a special ambassador. The top officials, the commission said, "are needed in Washington."

4. Gradual merging of the foreign service and regular state department establishment into a single foreign affairs service, with all employees obligated to serve either at home or overseas.

5. Giving more responsibility to ambassadors and ministers abroad that there could be no conflict with other American representatives on the scene.

Along with these recommendations, the group turned thumbs down for the present on any move to transfer the military governments of Europe and Japan to civilian control.

The commission submitted its recommendations without any estimate of possible immediate savings, noting that postwar readjustments already have cut down state department personnel by 28 percent.

FALL PROVES FATAL TO WOMAN SHOPPER

Unlontown, Feb. 21.—(P)—The eight children of Mrs. Mack S. Whoolery became worried Saturday night when she didn't return from a shopping trip to nearby Fairchance.

Yesterday two youths saw the crumpled body of Mrs. Whoolery near the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad right of way. Packages were strewn about.

Deputy Coroner J. W. Goldsboro said Mrs. Whoolery had been dead several hours. He theorized she was knocked unconscious when she fell on the tracks. Two freight trains had passed the scene shortly after she fell, he added.

Only one Scout, Cub Scout 10, Senior Scouts, paraded to the front of the municipal building from the armory with their flags, torch bearers and leaders were then formed in a half circle around the porch of the building.

Mrs. James R. Cober, Den Mother of Pack 11, portrayed "The Spirit of Liberty" and received the lighted torch from Eagle Scout Richard Rutledge who with Eagle Scout Richard Updegraff represented the Warren Boy Scout Council at a similar state-wide ceremony at Gettysburg, Battle field a week ago.

Grass Fires Keep Russell Dep't Busy

Russell Fire Department was on the jump over the week-end answering two calls, one of which took in two fires.

On Friday evening at 10:30 o'clock, a call was answered to the home of Charles Miller, of Russell, where a baby sitter had become alarmed because of smoke in the house. Investigation by the firemen disclosed that faulty dampers were the cause and there was no blaze.

On Saturday afternoon, some of the fire company were engaged in practice and drill near the bridge when a call came in at two o'clock. On the way to answer the call, which was a grass fire at the home of Mrs. Margaret Day, of Thompson Hill, the firemen discovered another grass fire out of control at the home of Lynn Burgett. They stopped long enough to put out the blaze which was burning around one of the small buildings, and then went on to the Day home where a grass fire burned over about 30 acres before they succeeded in getting it out with Indian tanks and rakes.

According to Pat Ferrie, chief of the department, the fire had apparently started near the house from a rubbish fire, but the wind was luckily in the right direction to carry it away from the home. About two hours were occupied and twenty-four men answered the call.

BACKS SCHOOL PLAN

According to word from Jamestown opponents to school centralization in Kiantone they have received some additional support in relation to their fight to curb powers of the State Commissioner of Education with the announcement by Chautauque Grange No. 571 that it was in favor of changing the centralization law to permit "the right of appeal from the decision of the Department of Education." The Grange, however, backed at further support of the Kiantone program to reverse certain phases of the centralization law, saying in the briefly worded resolution that "we are opposed to other changes asked for because of the harm they could cause to our present school system."

Bill Sommers, infield rookie candidate of the St. Louis Browns, has played four straight seasons in the minor leagues.

Trio Nabbed In Escapade At Jamestown

Jamestown—Three Jamestown youths are being held by the Chautauqua county sheriff's department at Mayville following a taxicab theft here and attempted theft of another car which resulted in a battle with Peace Justice G. Warren Wilcox, of Ashville, seven miles west of here.

Two of the youths, Fred Heerlein, 20, and George Sherwood, 16, both of Jamestown, were arrested by Deputies Merle Campaign, of Ripley, and George Preisa, of Mayville, in the home of Milo Smith, near Watts Flats, where they had gone to get warm.

The third, D. William Arters, 19, of R. D. 1, Lakewood, was taken into custody at 3 a. m. Friday at his trailer home on Route 74, between Ashville Forks and North Clymer.

Ten deputies, armed with rifles and shotguns, surrounded the trailer, but Arters offered no resistance. Deputy Sheriff Harold Land said only a shotgun was found in the trailer.

Arters' wife also was taken to Mayville as a material witness. She told Land they had been married about a year.

According to Sheriff Clarence Bell, the trio ordered a taxicab in Jamestown early Thursday night. They were picked up and driven toward Lakewood. After riding for a while they ordered Arthur Hedglin, 22, of Jamestown, the driver, to stop.

After handcuffing Hedglin, one of the trio took the wheel and drove west on Route 17-J.

As they neared Lakewood, the speed of the taxi aroused the suspicions of Deputy Sheriff Littnar Soderstrom, who gave chase and finally forced the fleeing trio to halt near Sherman's Bay. However, one of the youths drew a gun on Soderstrom, who was unarmed, and the trio again escaped.

Near Ashville the cab halted and two of the men went into the home of Dule Clinch, where a car owned by Justice Wilcox, was parked in the driveway.

Brandishing their guns, the youths ordered Wilcox to give them the keys to his car, but he refused and grappled with the pair, who fled on foot.

Hedglin, still handcuffed, was found unharmed in a nearby farmhouse.

THE NATION TODAY

By JAMES MARLOW

Ashington—(AP)—Congress is on a spot with the bill to pay war veterans a pension. A lot of veterans are going to vote at a lot of congressmen he vote is "no."

If the vote is "yes," the pension plan will add billions of dollars to the cost of running the government.

President Truman's administration is trying to keep costs, his leaders will try to the bill from coming to a vote.

It stands, the plan, or bill, for a pension of $90 a month for veterans of world wars I and II when they reach 65.

That would be $1,080 a year for 18,000,000 veterans.

About 200,000 veterans would be able this year, if the bill passes. The pension for them would be $65,000,000. As more veterans reach 65, the cost would climb the billions.

The AVC charge of "political handout" infuriated Rep. John Rankin, Mississippi Democrat, who

Showing Of Plymouths Is Set March 18

Detroit—(AP)—The new 1949 Plymouth cars will be publicly introduced on March 18.

This was disclosed today as the biggest of the Chrysler car divisions showed its new models to dealers of the Detroit area.

Some time later in the spring Plymouth plans to put into production a series of shorter wheelbase models. They will be of 111-inches compared with the 118-inch wheelbase of the cars now in production.

Prices for the new cars were not announced but increases on all models are expected. Price tags for all the new Chrysler units—Chrysler, DeSoto, Dodge and Plymouth—may be announced next week.

Although wholly unofficial, guessing in trade circles has been that the increases may range as high as eight per cent over present list prices.

In presenting the new models to the dealers, R. C. Somerville, general sales manager for Plymouth, indicated sales promotion will emphasize what he termed "common sense" design.

He described the new model as easy to enter and leave. "You don't mock your hat off getting in and out," he said, "and dented fenders will not cost a fortune to repair."

Move Is On To Rebuild Dam At Columbus

Corry Journal: A new approach to the problem of attempting to reconstruct the Columbus Dam which was badly damaged in the Spring flood of 1947 was reported to have the backing of Assemblymen W. W. Waterhouse of this city and Allen Gibson of Sheffield.

Although nothing definite has been established in a new movement to rebuild the dam and pond, it is understood that the district assemblymen have discussed the possibility of attempting to procure a legislative appropriation for the project.

The request for state funds would be based on the fact that reconstruction of the dam would be both a recreational and conservation type of project.

Scores of cottage residents and others in Columbus township and this area urging rebuilding of the dam point out that the pond was enjoyed by hundreds of fishermen, swimmers and summertime residents prior to its damage by the flood waters.

Previous attempts through formation of a non-profit corporation to launch work on rebuilding the dam have been fruitless. Shortly after the spillway was destroyed, Columbus township residents formed the non-profit group with the hope of soliciting enough contributions to finance the project.

However, failure to secure the necessary state approval from the Department of Forests and Waters has blocked any progress with the start the fund.

That one or two manufacturing plants located near the dam will have objections to any application to rebuild the structure.

Just how much success can be expected from the new attempt to start work on the dam is expected to be known within the next few weeks.

AMA'S HEALTH PROGRAM

The 12-point national health program of the American Medical Association is a far cry from the position which that organization held for so long. For years it has expended much time and effort in a determined negative stand on any sort of "socialized medicine." But the AMA has evidently taken note of public sentiment and concluded that the status quo, whatever its merits, can no longer be preserved.

So the association has come out for such revolutionary (for them) measures as a Cabinet department of health, a national foundation for medical research, greater emphasis on industrial medicine, voluntary health insurance, rural health centers, mental hygiene, health education, and so on. In contrast to this retreat from a fixed position we have the testimony of AFL President William Green on a new labor relations law. Mr. Green has never budged from his opposition to the Taft-Hartley Act or admitted that it was ever anything but totally evil, from first word to last. He has never, to our knowledge, admitted that union leaders have ever indulged in any excesses of power or privilege. He has never admitted that any regulation of union activity was desirable or necessary.

Perhaps it's in the nature of their profession, but it seems to us that the members of organized medicine have felt the public pulse more accurately than the members of organized labor. There was a time when it seemed that no group could be more adamant than the officers of the AMA. But, whether or not their program is either what the people want or what Congress will pass, it can be said that they have seen the light.

The task of Congress would be easier and our industrial future would be brighter if men like Mr. Green could have a similar revelation. It is obvious that AMA realized at length that the public has quite as much at stake in national health legislation as the medical profession does. We hope that Mr. Green and others of like mind will also come to believe that a labor law is not simply a grant of privilege to the unions but a code of regulations that affects consumer and employer as well as the worker.

IT'S AS SIMPLE AS THIS!

E. B. Lasher, well known poultry raiser on the Warren-Jamestown road, near Russell, calls our attention to the following interesting item that appeared recently in "IBCA News," official organ of the International Baby Chick Association which should be read with interest by every citizen interested in helping the government to avoid a $38 million headache:

No one in the poultry industry relishes a condition which makes it necessary for the government to support the egg market. It can be avoided.

Last year the government bought 2.8 million cases of eggs in its price-supporting operations. That's only 7 eggs per person! If each person had just eaten seven more eggs sometime during the 366 days of 1948, the government wouldn't have had to enter the market.

The cost to each individual for those 7 eggs was 26.6 cents. The 143 million persons residing in this country paid for the eggs but they didn't eat them.

It looks like the government will have to drain off about the same number of eggs per person this year. How can we convince the public that it can avoid the $38 million expense by an egg support program simply by eating 7 more eggs per person in 1949.

Whipping the surplus problem is as simple as that!

WORTHY OBJECTIVE

In the day's mail comes a pamphlet from Swift & Company, well known packing firm, presenting the report of John Holmes, company president, to the shareholders. Admitting that 4,000 meat packers are actively competing for the favor of the American housewife, he declares any successful business must be guided by sound principles. Briefly stated, he sums them up as follows:

- Deal honorably with all people.
- Operate efficiently.
- Research constantly to improve products and services.
- Pay equitable wages, provide opportunity for advancement, and maintain sincere concern for the well being of employees.
- Sell not only products but our good behavior as well.
- Earn a profit sufficient for the company to fulfill these responsibilities and to provide shareholders with a fair return on their invested savings.

Measuring up to these ideals is admittedly a real job but President Holmes has confidence as do many other Americans, that "each succeeding generation has made

Mackenzie's Column

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
AF Foreign Affairs Analyst
General Omar N. Bradley, United States Army chief of staff and one of the outstanding commanders in World War II, preaches a powerful sermon on the dangers of "delinquent citizenship" today in an article in Collier's Weekly.
As a matter of fact, this ordinarily quiet-spoken soldier rolls up his sleeves and administers a sound drubbing to shirkers. The burden of his rebuke is that we Americans can lose the battle against statism if we fail to make our contributions to the welfare of the home, the school, the church and the community. That means everybody—not just the other fellow, but you and me.
The general is dealing with such a vital truth in such a forceful manner, that this column welcomes the opportunity to report his views. He imparts the feeling that it's high time for us to take stock. He points out that our struggle against the forces of evil may be long and that "ideas are as important as the atom bomb." He sums it up bluntly like this: "Our danger lies not so much in a fifth column whose enmity is avowed. It lies in a first column of well-meaning American citizens x x x who are 100 percent Americans in their daily protestations and ten percent citizens in their daily routine of neglect."
General Bradley assesses the faults of the younger generation against the elders. The failure of the elders to meet the demands of citizenship is responsible, he believes, for "political immaturity, economic ignorance, philosophical indifference and spiritual insolvency" of many American youth.
That strikes home to those of us who have children just arriving at maturity. It seems to me that the younger generation is reaching for ideas as youth never has before. Unhappily that search is being conducted in the unhealthy atmosphere which follows any great war and which is especially bad these days as the result of the division of mankind into two hostile ideological blocs.
Small wonder Bradley reports that psychologists tell his post-war generation is undisciplined, jealously aware of rights but not of responsibilities, mercenary and antagonistic to authority. Clearly this is the time, as the general indicates, when the elders must turn to and help youth adjust itself.

Experts From All Over Give Solons Economic Short Course

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Leon Keyserling, vice chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, has begun what amounts to a short course for Congress on the economic facts of life. It isn't such a short course at that. Before Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney's Joint Congressional Committee of seven representatives and seven senators get through with its hearings, it will have heard six or eight officers, three heads of agencies on banking, housing and social security, and 15 economists and executives from private business. If the lawmakers aren't completely confused by all this expert testimony, then they should have some better idea of what the President's long-winded and involved Economic Report to Congress was all about, and what they are expected to do about it. Also, they should be able to appraise economic changes in the past six weeks.

It is very easy to misinterpret these developments, Keyserling told the congressmen in his opening two-hour lecture. For instance, to report that unemployment increased 700,000 from December to January is an accurate statement of fact. But it ignores the interpretive facts that unemployment is no higher than it was last February and that employment is higher than at any time before.

Another mistake, said Keyserling, is to think that the recent leveling off or decline in some prices has been a general deflationary decline. It is true that some prices have softened. In the last two months the cost of living has dropped two points from its all-time high. But it is still 74 per cent above 1929 levels. And there's no assurance it won't go up again.

Also, other prices are continuing to advance. Some prices reached all-time peaks in January. Rents are still creeping upward. Average wholesale prices, other than food and farm products, are now at near peaks. All major industrial items except textiles are up.

What it all adds up to, says Keyserling, is that the economy is in a mixed situation. It needs selective anti-inflationary controls and it needs some anti-deflationary measures.

The general economic outlook is bright. It can be kept bright if there is some affirmative action now. The situation would be still brighter today if there had been some of this affirmative action a year or more ago. If nothing is done now, the situation can decline.

KEYSERLING gave six areas of maladjustment needing attention:

1. The cost of living is still higher than at the beginning of last year. From a fourth to a fifth of all U. S. families do not have sufficient income to maintain an adequate standard of living.
2. The relationship between farm and industrial prices is out of joint. Since 1946 wholesale farm prices have risen 22 per cent, industrial prices 45 per cent. The problem is to bring down the cost of living without driving farm income further downward.
3. The price of metals and metal products has increased nearly 25 per cent since 1947 and was up 2.4 per cent December to January. The result has been reflected in such developments as decline of residential construction in 1948.
4. Consumer expenditures have dropped. Correspondingly, compensation for employees has dropped from 66 per cent of the national income in 1939 to 61 per cent in 1948, while business and professional income have risen.
5. Corporate profits have been running higher than needed to maintain business expansion investment. Corporate dividends, however, were only 36 per cent of profits after taxes in 1948, compared with 49 per cent in 1929 and 76 per cent in 1939.
6. Some basic industries are not increasing their productive capacities fast enough to maintain full employment and economic growth.

In Chicago, seven members of a gang were shot down in cold blood by rival gangsters. In Washington, President Coolidge, now that his term of office is nearly complete, has asked the nation for a summer White House. And in Warren, merchants report a successful Dollar Day. George Baneroff stars in "The Docks of New York" at the Library. At the Columbia Madge Bellamy appears in "Fugitives," a tense drama of the underworld. Garrison's Specialty Shoppe, Penna. avenue, west, is having a sale—every coat, suit and dress in the store at half price. Defeated by Erie East High, 31-13, Coach Leidig and his Warren high basketballers today faced the last home game of the season and the last league game so far as the Blue and White is concerned. A crew of men has started work on paving of the Irvin-Tidoute road. Two sites for the proposed new post office are being considered—one, the Fletcher Parker property at the corner of Liberty street and Third avenue and the other, the Central school property at the corner of Hickory street and Third avenue. William H. Cannon, Jr., manager of the Brown Boot shop, reported seeing a robin, this being encouraging news in the midst of one of the coldest spells of weather this winter. The teachers of the East street school were entertained at the home of Miss Ida McKinney, Cayuga avenue.

Warren High's Dragons tied with St. Marys for first place in the northern district, by winning a contest from Kane. The battle was exciting from start to finish, with Warren having the lead throughout most of the game but holding on by a slender thread every minute. Harold Brown handled the difficult assignment of covering Guy Mayo, Kane's main point-getter. Charles Boyer is appearing at the Columbia in "Algiers." At the Library, the picture, "Honolulu" stars Eleanor Powell and Robert Young. Miss Lucille Corbett, a senior at Hood College, and daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Corbett, of Warren, will attend the annual "honors" party given by the president of the college, for all students who have maintained a high standard in academic work during the past semester. The Warren Baking Company has just purchased one of the latest type bakery trucks and has placed it in use in Warren as an experiment. The North Warren Minstrel show is in rehearsal for a performance to benefit the North Warren Community House. Crisp dotted Swiss embroidery outlines the V-neckline of a soft navy wool dress by Mainbocher. It has a molded silhouette, Victorian sleeves and the petticoat showing below the slightly flared skirt.

More Natural Gas Assured This District

Corry Journal: Assurance of more natural gas for the Corry district was given with the announcement from Washington, D. C., that the Federal Power Commission has authorized the Texas Transmission Corp. to increase delivery to the Pennsylvania Gas Company and the United Natural Gas Company of Oil City.

In the FPC order, the transmission corporation was granted permission to increase the delivery capacity of the Big and Little Inch pipelines by 75,000,000 cubic feet daily. Of this total the PGC and United and the Iroquois Gas Corp. will share 15,000,000 cubic feet per day.

The commission also directed that the gas be sold to 10 other companies for resale to consumers.

In Missouri, Indiana, Ohio, New York and New Jersey.

Fortunately, because of the exceptionally mild winter the PGC has not experienced any severe gas shortage this year.

The additional fuel will be allocated to the 12 companies on the basis of need, determined by past experience in supplying natural fuel.

Residents On Route Six To Enter Protest

Kane Republican: Citing conditions on the Route 6 "pass" only temporarily remedied with the big fill ready to become passable at any time, residents of Northwest—a settlement a mile west of Kane last week prepared to confer with N. A. Staples, district highway engineer relative to maintenance of a "reasonable access" to Kane.

Jack Covert and Hugo Nelson headed a delegation of representatives to protest condition of the route which at times has been "absolutely impassable"—virtually isolating the area from fire and medical protection as well as preventing the residents from reaching work and children from getting to school.

The men stated that the construction company completed the fill by placing a heavy layer of half-frozen mud on top of the stone base. Regardless of the number of times the ruts and holes are filled, the condition will be repeated as soon as the frozen mud defrosts under above freezing temperatures.

After the road was bulldozed smooth Friday, early morning traffic found it O. K.—but through the day the warm weather and sun turned the road to such a condition that cars again were stuck and both fills were in bad condition.

The group of area residents reported they have support of Kane business and industry in maintaining the "reasonable access" and are asking only that a one-way lane be cleaned to the stone base to permit passage through.

The residents reported it would be no great task to bulldoze the mud aside to leave the lane open—and to push the earth back later. They indicated they also planned to advise Ray Smock, state secretary of highways, of the hazardous conditions and the menace to protection of life and property in the area.

Six Affected By Gas From New Heater

Seven Warren persons narrowly escaped serious injury or death Saturday evening when six of the group were affected by fumes from a hot water heater in the home of G. A. Carlson, 808 Conewango avenue about 6:30 o'clock.

In the house at the time were Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Carlson and daughter, Frances, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Carlson and daughters, Nancy and Sandra, of Shelby, who were guests at the Carlson home at the time.

Firemen responded to the call with a rescuator and treated six of the group who were affected. About 45 minutes were spent in reviving the sufferers before firemen returned to stations.

DIESEL LOCOMOTIVES HAUL MORE GOODS AND PASSENGERS...

... WITH GREATER SAFETY AND COMFORT FOR EVERYBODY

BECAUSE OF ITS MODERN, ALMOST FOOLPROOF DESIGN;
THE DIESEL IS PRACTICALLY AUTOMATIC!

Yet leaders of two railroad unions demand extra men on diesels!
Just plain feather-bedding—here's why!

Here's the truth about diesel locomotives:

Diesel locomotives are equipped with every modern device for maximum safety. They have automatic controls. They can be operated safely by one man. But two men—an engineer and a fireman—are now employed on a diesel road locomotive.

Diesel locomotives—adopted by the railroads as one way of improving their service to you—have hauled millions of passengers in recent years with one of the best safety records in railroad history!

They have pulled millions of tons of freight millions of miles—also with one of the best safety records in railroad history!

Full Pay—No Work!

Leaders of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen are now demanding an extra engineer and an extra fireman on diesels, claiming the extra men are not needed. They would just be drawing full pay for doing no work.

The railroads are placing an ever-increasing number of diesels in service—both passenger and freight. These trains are operated at speeds consistent with safety and good service—and on both counts their record tops all public transportation.

Feather-Bedding Is Against Public Interest!

If the ridiculous demands of these union leaders were granted, it would mean paying out millions in wages to men not needed in diesel locomotives.

The leaders of the Engineers' Union have threatened to call a strike to enforce their "feather-bedding" demands. Nevertheless the railroads are resisting—and will continue to resist—such "make-work" schemes which require payment for work not done—schemes which are contrary to the interest of the whole American people.

HERE ARE THE FACTS!

1. The safety record of trains pulled by diesel locomotives is the best of all public transportation.
2. Diesel locomotives provide the best working conditions locomotive engineers and firemen have ever enjoyed: comfort, cleanliness, ease of operation, maximum safety.
3. Diesel locomotives are maintained at peak operating efficiency.
4. The diesel is virtually automatic. It is equipped with the most modern safety appliances.
5. The diesel locomotive is the last word in railroad efficiency, safety and comfort.

Chapter 9

DUCAL MONTFORT then gestured to a chair.

"But sit down, man, sit down!" he invited Rivers. "You should feel at home here—eh, Guinivere?"

There was slowness behind the heaviness. David's pale face twisted. But Guinivere took no notice. "I would think so," she conceded. Her voice was deep and pleasing, like cool waters on a hot day.

Rivers seated himself. There was tension, as though they had scarcely expected him, were not just sure what his coming implied. But he could see no suspicion on their part that he was not the real Don Fernando.

It was Dikkar who spoke, eagerly in his voice. "Tell me, Don Fernando. Have you anything new, concerning the situation here at New Orleans?"

As regards the edict of the French?

"Nothing recent," Rivers said. "Why?"

"I was wondering," Dikkar answered evasively, but relief was in his voice. There are many rumors abroad.

"I haven't been where I could hear them."

Dikkar shrugged. "In Washington there's talk of war—they say. Others claim that the Kennedys are organizing an expedition against the city, here."

"Report has it that Bonaparte has boasted that in two years he will be master of the world," David put in.

"I doubt it," Rivers said deliberately. "He may have said it yes. But the world is no easy apple to pluck."

"Yet you'll have to grant the man has powerful fingers!"

starting with Ducal, ending with Bashan. Ducal lifted his glass.

"To a pleasant evening!" he toasted, and they drank, none bothering to rise. Guinivere had seated herself on the arm of David's chair.

"You have found profitable employment these latter months," Dikkar asked politely.

Rivers shrugged. "Possibly," he admitted. "One never knows the score until the game is ended."

"It could be ended," Bashan suggested, and restrained eagerness, amounting to ferocity, was in his eyes.

"Don't be a fool, Bashan," Dikkar growled. "Some day you'll get more than you bargain for."

"Me?" Bashan laughed and flexed great muscles. "The man is not yet born who can play at swords with Bashan!"

"Braggarts live short lives," Rivers interjected lightly.

Bashan came roaring to his feet, great blade in the air. Ducal Montfort's sharp voice halted him.

"Bashan! That will be enough—for the present! Believe me, Don Fernando, we are glad to have you at Montfort again. We will dine within the hour. Meanwhile, you are no doubt impatient. So if you will excuse us!"

He nodded, gestured, and got himself out of the room. David walked, limping assisted by Guinivere and his slave. Bashan lingered, eyeing Rivers, until Dikkar ordered him out.

"Dinner in an hour," he repeated. "And the Montforts keep their word. Here is your sister, Don Fernando—and we have treated her as well as we knew."

As a guest, rather than a hostage against your return."

RIVERS caught his breath. He had believed that he was so insured to surprise that nothing now could catch him off-guard. But Don Fernando had set in motion a series of events fraught with surprises. Certainly the man coming toward him now, this woman who was Don Fernando's sister, was breath-taking enough.

She was slender and graceful, and the family resemblance was easy to see. Her arrogance was of a different quality than Don Fernando's. Her large dark eyes were fixed upon Rivers, a half-smile parting her lips, as she drifted toward him. A new wave of hate, sudden and sharp, welled in Rivers—hate for Don Fernando, who would so callously use even his sister as a pawn in a game.

There was nothing in her eyes to appraise Rivers as to whether she knew him for a pretender, or not. Either she accepted him as her brother, or else she was a polished actress by instinct. She came into his arms, lifting her lips to his, and he saw then the cold appraisal in her eyes, knew that she was not deceived.

"Ah, Fernando," she sighed. "So now you end my banishment! It has been long, Fernando—yet short and pleasant. But it is good to see you again."

"I think that you have grown more handsome since I saw you last," she murmured. "Time has been kind to you. But it is hot in here. Let us go on to the patio."

She led the way to a second-story porch which looked off to the turquoise flood of the not-distant river. Out here, no one could overhear what they might say. She sank into a reclining chair and said:

"Now, just who are you? And where is my scoundrel of a brother? It would be too much to hope that his desserts had caught up with him."

Plan Vast Radar Warning System for U. S. and Canada

Congress is considering an Air Force proposal for a joint U. S.-Canada radar network to warn against the approach of hostile aircraft. The U. S. share of the cost would be $161,000,000. While warning that the system will not provide anything like an "airtight" radar fence, the Air Force said it would provide warning of planes up to 300 miles away—sufficient to enable the Air Force to prepare a defense. The map above illustrates one plan for such a radar network as urged recently by F. H. Lack, chairman of the radio industry's mobilization committee, in the magazine Mechanics Illustrated. The radar stations would be in touch with the central control post (inset) by television.

The Arm Lends a Hand

What may be the answer to the phonograph record muddle is a new pick-up arm which will play the standard records and long-playing ones. Displayed in New York, the pick-up has a sapphire point. Youngsville Plans Father-Son Program

Youngsville, Feb. 21.—Both men and boys are invited to attend the special dinner and program to be held in the Methodist church at 6 p. m. Wednesday, when Scout Executive Frank Parker will be present to speak and show a movie, "Future Citizens of Tomorrow". It is expected that members of Scout Troop 24 and their dads will be among those in attendance. There is no charge for the dinner, but all are asked to bring table service.

The Sunshine Club meets February 24th at the home of Mrs. Edna Jaupin, with co-hostess Mrs. Rosella Mansfield. There will be entertainment and a luncheon served.

Bishop Dennis of the E. U. B. church is scheduled to speak in the Youngsville E. U. B. church on Tuesday, March 1st, at 7:30 p. m. Everyone is invited.

C. A. Anderson will be the speaker at Methodist Laymen's Day service next Sunday with Paul Gettis, lay leader, as chairman of this service.

Dale Grady was a recent visitor of friends in Pittsburgh.

Recent guests at the home of Mrs. Mary Hayes were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hayes, of Falconer, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Bull and family, of Clymer, and Harry Hayes, of Falconer.

Gas Price War Is Reported Spreading

Pittsburgh, Feb. 21.—(P)—Some sections of Butler and Lawrence counties have been enveloped by a gasoline price war.

Fourteen service stations between Harlansburg and Portersville on Route 19 have slashed prices. Popular brands of motor gasoline are selling at 21 and nine-tenths cent a gallon with high test fuel selling about one cent higher. (In downtown Pittsburgh the prices range from 26½ to 28½ cents a gallon.)

However, Sam Pusateri, president of the Allegheny County Retail Gasoline Dealers' Association, said he didn't believe that would happen. He added that the association is planning to ask the state legislature to establish a minimum margin between the sale price and what the fuel costs the dealer. This, he said, would end gasoline wars.

Spring In February Is Enjoyed By Kids

The calendar said it was February—but the kids said it was spring.

Eidney temperatures and clear skies over the weekend produced a batch of roller skates, baseball gloves and other "sure signs of spring" games. The mercury soared to a high of 61 degrees Friday afternoon, and hit the 62 degree mark on Saturday afternoon.

The fair weather also proved a boon to local merchants as hundreds of county residents crowded the Warren business district to take advantage of the many "Dollar Day" bargains.

The river level at Warren this morning was an even five feet, a drop of three feet from the high mark of eight feet reached last Tuesday.

Letters to the Editor

BETRAYAL OF FRIENDS
I just read that Senator Leroy Chapman is sponsoring a bill to turn over unclaimed cats and dogs to medical institutions for scientific study.

Ladies and gentlemen, this bill is atrocious. It does away with our anti-vivisection law and all the other laws we fought years for, to protect our animals from cruelty.

It means if your dog or cat gets lost, or stolen and abandoned, they can be sent to experimental institutions and subjected to untold cruelty.

Starvation diets, injected full of drugs to see if they will kill or cure, and cut up alive for all kinds of experiments. We executed men in Germany for these same experiments on humans in concentration camps.

This bill will also encourage unscrupulous people to drive into strange towns with trucks and pick up any animal on the street and sell them to these experimental institutions.

Ladies and gentlemen, write or wire your protest to this bill at once.

M. S. BAKER,
Erie, Pa.

CRASH ON ROUTE 8
State Police from Franklin investigating the accident early Saturday morning in which a 1942 Ford sedan crashed into a telephone pole said Merle Snively, 21, of Route 1, Garland, was admitted to the Titusville Hospital suffering from shock and bruises. He was discharged yesterday. Clarence A. Burleigh of Route 1, Grand Valley, was the owner and driver of the car. State Police said. He failed to round a Route 8 curve about a mile south of Titusville and hit the pole with the side of his car as the vehicle was skidding. The hefty pole was broken off at the base. Wires across the highway came down, entangling the car and blocking traffic until Titusville police came to the scene. The right side of the car was damaged to the extent of $600. State Police said. The windows and the windshield were shattered.

Chapter 10

"Far too much," Rivers agreed. "His health is excellent, and as to his whereabouts, he is somewhere close to New Orleans, I suspect."

He was assuming that she knew the details of his arrival aboard the Lovely Maria, and he saw that it was so. She nodded.

"And you?" she asked.

"Mine was the fortune, good or ill—I scarcely know which—to fall into his power. And to look so much like him that he sent me here in his place."

"Trust Fernando to see the possibilities and to grasp them," she agreed. "And you do resemble him most closely. You have deceived the Montforts, who are not easy to fool. Of course, a year accounts for some change. For a moment I was almost fooled. You have a name?"

"Rivers," he said briefly. "Jean Rivers."

She repeated it musingly. "It might be prophetic," she said, and her gaze went to the great river. "You did not expect to see me?"

"I didn't know of your existence," he agreed.

She smiled, as though amused but not surprised.

"Fernando is not changed. He delights in surprises—for the other fellow." She eyed him more critically. "Though, this time I wonder if he may not have overreached himself—just a little. Perhaps he has thought to stroke a mighty king, and will find it is no kitten at all."

"And that would please you?" Rivers challenged.

"Nothing would please me better," she agreed. "Though he was kinder than he planned—in leaving me here. The Montforts have treated me as though I was one of the family."

"Perhaps they'd like it that way."

Her glance lifted quickly, dropped again, and the hint of color rose in her cheeks.

"You are even quicker than Fernando," she complimented him. "Though they will let me go—now that you are here according to promise. In their way, the Montforts are the souls of honor. Dikkon has not presumed upon his position."

SO IT WAS Dikkon. And the feeling, Rivers guessed, was returned. As though reading his thoughts, she colored again.

"Since you are not Fernando, perhaps I should warn you. What Dikkon thinks about me will make no difference—it could not, in any case, since Dikkon gives the orders. And he is never swayed by sentiment. In any case, they know that I hate you—or that I hate Fernando," she amended.

"You have not told me your name," he suggested.

"Oh, I had forgotten. It is Irene."

"Irene." He repeated it, noting the difference in the inflection from the more common name of Irene. "That is odd—and rather beautiful."

"Do you think so? It is an old name in our family. There has always been an Irene, since the days of the Moorish influence in Spain. I have always suspected that there might be a little of the wildness of the heathen Moorish blood added to the wildness of Spanish blood—as is the case with Bashan of the Montforts."

That was not hard to credit. She asked a sudden question.

"You would not, I suppose, know my brother's plans? His real ones?"

"They have to do with piracy, I believe."

"That is not surprising," Irene agreed.
